CAPTAIN LOSES LIFE
TRYING TO SAVE WIFE

Leaps Into Water to Rescue Struggling Spouse, and Is Crushed by Big Vessel.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 5.—In trying to rescue his wife from the path of the steamer Puritan here after the big steamer had made a wreck of his vessel, Capt. John D. Dean of the schooner H. M. Avery was caught between the Puritan's hull and a dock and crushed to death. Mrs. Dean, swept into midstream after seeing her husband killed, was with difficulty rescued by persons on shore. She is almost insane from fright and grief.

The Avery had just reached St. Joseph. She was docked at the Wallace dock as the Puritan started from a nearby wharf. Until the Puritan came within a few feet of the Avery there was no thought of danger and before the captain and his wife could escape the steel prow of the Puritan cut deep into the Avery's hull.

With the crash Mrs. Dean was thrown into the water. The captain could have saved himself, but he leaped into the stream and started toward his struggling wife. He was within a few feet of her when the Puritan, rebounding from the collision, caught him and dashed him against the wharf.

ANTHRACITE STRIKE
NOW SEEMS UNLIKELY

Operators Will Recognize the District Presidents if the Miners Again Elect Them.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 5.—The danger of a strike seems to be already passing away, even before the decision of the convention of miners, which is to meet in Pottsville within ten days. This is due to the statements of coal companies' officials and superintendents that if the miners elect the three district presidents as their representatives on the conciliation board by a majority vote there would be no further objection to their eligibility to serve on the board. This action will most likely be taken at the coming convention.

Mitchell Is Conservative.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—With regard to the probability of a resumption of the strike in the anthracite region of Pennsylvania, President John Mitchell of the United Mineworkers was unwilling to make any statement. "I do not wish to anticipate," he said, concerning the chief point to the controversy that now seems likely to provoke a renewal of hostilities, that of whether or not the men selected by the miners' organization should be members of the board of conciliation authorized by the board of arbitration. He said:

"The statement that the question of recognizing the United Mineworkers was never submitted to the strike commission is entirely untrue. That was one of the important awards in our favor, the wording of it being that 'the miners' organization,' which, of course, is the United Mineworkers, should have three representatives on the board of conciliation, one for each district. Naturally, I appeared for the anthracite coal workers before the strike commission, but it was as president of the United Mineworkers that I was given the right to do so."

Mr. and Mrs. John McArthur of Bradford were drawn at a breakneck speed down the courthouse hill this morning by a horse which employed only three legs for locomotion. The fourth was hanging over the whiffletree where the animal had kicked when it came to the incline, and the spectators wondered that a serious accident did not result. The horse was a young animal and unaccustomed to much single driving, and it is supposed that as the weight came upon the breechings, to which the horse was unused, the strangeness of it caused the runaway. The horse was safely brought to a halt near Grubb's grocery, unhurt save for some bruises on its legs.

The resolutions indorse President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna for re-election, and oppose any radical change in existing tariff laws.

The platform begins by congratulating the state and nation on the results of Republican administration. President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna are then indorsed for re-election as follows:

"We recommend President Roosevelt's fidelity to duty, his adherence to President McKinley's policies, and his own proved ability in his high office, showing him in every way worthy of election by the people to be their chief magistrate. We favor his nomination for president in 1904.

"The Ohio Republican delegation in congress has honored the state in both houses. Senators Joseph B. Foraker and Marcus A. Hanna have splendidly maintained Ohio's leadership. The re-election of Senator Hanna is a distinct national demand upon our state, and we hereby cordially promise him the undivided support of the entire Republican party of Ohio."

State issues are covered by a series of resolutions relating to taxation and other matters. Legislation for the improvement of canals and rivers is favored. Good roads are demanded. LEVEES BREAK;
LOSS IS GREAT

Thousands of Acres of Rich Bottom Lands Are Now Under Water.

Keokuk, Ia., June 5.—The flood in the Mississippi at this point and south of here passed all records and became the most destructive in the history of the upper Mississippi valley. The Hunt and Indian Grove levees broke and the districts protected by them are being inundated. The district includes 75,000 acres of the richest bottom land along the river and the loss is conservatively estimated at $10 an acre. The immense tract of Missouri bottoms flooded early in the week makes the total area flooded over 200,000 acres. The loss in addition to the crop loss includes the damage to the levees, the loss of stock and the destruction of buildings.

Loss is $3,000,000.

The say levee broke, and now all levees in the flood plain are broken. The Mississippi at the mouth of the Des Moines forms a lake fifteen miles wide and it extends as far south as Hannibal, with nearly the same width the entire distance of sixty miles.

The high water mark of 1831, the highest ever known, has been passed at Alexandria, south of the mouth of the Des Moines, and it is being approached here.

So far as known there has been no loss of life. The lowest estimates on the loss between Keokuk and Hannibal is $3,000,000 and many place it at a much higher figure.

She reports that a break in the levee is threatened directly in front of the town, and if it goes every house in the village will probably be swept away.

Situation at Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., June 5.—Estimates of the damage done by the flood are being reduced. At first they ranged from $10,000,000 up, but now they are all much below that sum. The greatest loss was of the sixteen bridges across the Kansas river, all substantial structures. At Armour's the fires have been lighted. The wheat and the flour in the mills and the elevators was not injured, but 750 carloads of grain submerged on the tracks was ruined.

The Armourdale Flood association has issued an appeal for aid, saying that 16,000 people are homeless; that they have lost their furniture, clothing and everything, and their houses have been carried off or totally wrecked. ROOSEVELT AT LINCOLN'S TOMB

In Company With Senator Shelby M. Cullom the Nation's Chief Executive Visits the Last Resting Place of the Great Emancipator at Springfield.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—President Roosevelt made the last speech of his transcontinental tour at Indianapolis. His stop in this city was of only fifteen minutes' duration, and at 9:20 p. m. his special train started direct for Washington.

The presidential special reached Indianapolis at 9:05 last night, and 5,000 people were waiting at Jackson place, in front of the Union station. The president appeared on a platform near the entrance to the station, accompanied by Gov. Durbin and the Indiana senators. He was introduced by Mayor Bookwalter.

In response to the cheers of the great crowd the president said:

People Are United.
"I have been from the Atlantic to the Pacific and now well high back again to the Atlantic, and the thing that has struck me more than aught else wherever I have been is the fundamental unity of our people. And another thing, I went on my trip a pretty good expansionist; I come back a better one, because, having seen our people on the Atlantic coast, in the Mississippi valley, in the great plains, and among the Rockies and on the Pacific coast, I fail to see how any man can look at them and not see that inevitably they belong to the expanding and not to the stationary races of mankind.

Nation is Conservative.
"This people has a mighty destiny before it and can work out that destiny only as it has worked out its destiny in the past. There will be no radical or extreme action by our nation. We are, for all our spirit of progress, essentially a conservative people.

We believe in conservatism, but it is a conservatism not of timidity, not of mere stolidity. It is the conservatism of good sense. We do not intend to be spurred into rash action or to be frightened out of action that is needed by the circumstances of the case.

Suffer No Injustice.
"Our people have ever shown in their history that combination of energy and common sense which must be shown by every great masterful race. In private life we all of us look down upon the man who brawls, who threatens, and who when the pinch comes fails to make his words good by deeds. I ask that this nation conduct itself with regard to foreign affairs on the same principle which we admire if shown by the private citizen. Speak courteously of other peoples. Treat them well. Do no injustice to the weak, and suffer no injustice to be done to us by the strong.

Build Up the Navy.
"As an incident in following that historic policy of our nation I ask our people to see to it that there is no halt in the building up of the American navy. I ask that it be built up and kept up, not for the purpose of war but to keep the peace. I think that foreign nations feel pleasantly toward us, but I think, also, that it will help them to continue to feel pleasantly if we have a good navy."

The last day of the 14,000 mile journey was comparatively an easy one for the president. He made stops at Lincoln, Decatur, Springfield, and Danville, in Illinois, coming direct to Indianapolis from the latter city. He made his principal speech at Springfield, where he dedicated the new state arsenal, and was entertained at luncheon at the executive mansion.

Thousands Cheer.
Twenty thousand visitors from outside cities added their cheers to those of the people of Springfield when the president arrived at 10:15 a. m. At the station were in waiting Gov. Yates and Senator Cullom, with a reception committee of 400, and a military escort consisting of the entire Fifth regiment, Illinois National guard; Troops D and G, First Illinois cavalry; engineer company, signal corps, and Yates cadets of Springfield, all under command of Adj. Gen. Smith. The infantry was commanded by Col. J. S. Culver and the cavalry detachment by Col. E. C. Young of Chicago. Members of Gov. Yates' personal staff, mounted, acted as aids to Adj. Gen. Smith.

Visits Lincoln Monument.
From the railway station to the arsenal the president was escorted through lines of cheering people. On each side of Capital avenue, between Sixth street and the statehouse, were massed 5,000 school children, who waved flags as the procession passed.

Blind

During Attacks Of Heart Failure.

Would Appear To Be Dead.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Relieved and Cured.

"I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is all that one can wish it to be. I was troubled with heart disease for fifteen years. I have tried many different remedies but until I tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I could find no relief. I was subject to headaches and had tried your Pain-Expeller and were so effective I thought your Heart Cure might help me. I would have attacks at times so severe that I would be stone blind for the time being. During these spells I would be to all appearances dead. I took the medicine strictly as directed and I can truthfully say that I am completely cured. I advise all that are troubled with heart disease to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure at once. I write this and give my name to my fellow sufferers."—S. E. Purdy, Atkinson, Nebraska.

"I first felt the effects of a weak heart in the fall of 1896. I saw an advertisement in the Sioux City paper in which a man stated his symptoms which seemed to me to indicate a trouble similar to mine. I had a soreness in the chest at times, and in my shoulder, an oppressive choking sensation in my throat and suffered from weak and hungry spells. I was truly frightened at my condition and procured six bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Since taking my first bottle I have never been bothered by any of the old disagreeable symptoms and now am well and consider my cure permanent."—Lewis Anderson, Kuhn, S. D.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday probable showers.

COLONIAL ADMINISTRATION

The area, population, commerce, and methods of government of the colonies of the outside world are discussed in detail by a monograph just issued by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics entitled "Colonial Administration, 1880-1900."

It shows that the colonies, so-called of the world, including in this term all territory not contiguous to the country by whose government it is controlled, occupy two-fifths of the land surface of the globe and contain one-third of the world's population, or about 5,000,000,000 people. Of this colonial population of 5,000,000,000 only three small groups numbering less than 15,000,000 population, or 8 per cent of the whole, are composed in any considerable degree of the people of the governing country of their descendants. The principal colonies composed of people from the governing country or their descendants are the English colonies of North America, Australia and South Africa. The remaining 485,000,000 people, governed by countries not contiguous to that which they occupy, are of different stock from that of the governing country, and less than 1 per cent of their population is of the nationality which administers the government. Practically all of Africa, Oceania and Southern Asia are governed by countries not contiguous to the territory in question. All of the governing countries are located in the temperate zone and practically all of the territory governed as colonies is, with the exception of Canada, Southern Australia and New Zealand, tropical or sub-tropical.

The 485,000,000 people of stock, are different from that of the governing country, and located in the tropics, are divided into three great groups, East Indian, West Indian and Africa. The east Indian or oriental group, includes the British colonies of India, Ceylon, the Malay Peninsula, Fiji and Borneo; the Dutch colonies of Java and Sumatra, and the French colony of Indo-China, all located comparatively near to the Philippines, and having a population, climate and other conditions somewhat similar to those of the Philippines. The second group, the West Indian, includes colonies governed by the British, French, Dutch and Danish governments. The third group, Africa and adjacent islands, includes territory governed by Great Britain, France, Germany Italy, Portugal and Belgium.

COMMON SENSE TREATMENT

At an old lumber camp up among the hills of Pennsylvania, is located an outdoor sanitarium for the treatment of tubercular diseases. It was founded and conducted by Dr. Flick, a noted physician of Pittsburg. He is an enthusiast and what he terms the open air treatment, and his formula for consumptives is, eight hours a day in the open air, summer and winter, with a plain nourishing diet. His hospital is not a building, but a group of tents and shacks, and it is crowded with patients the year round. Many wonderful cures are performed, and people are discovering that outdoor air and a care free life, has more to do with checking this class of disease than climate or altitude.

The statement is frequently that life is being prolonged, and statistics prove that the claim is true. The fact is generally recognized that people are paying more attention to the laws of health. Thousands of dollars are spent today for lessons in physical training and muscular development, that a few years ago were spent on the stomach, for drugs that were supposed to be the only remedy for disease.

Among the heavy advertisers today are the men who teach people how to breathe correctly and how to exercise. This is sensible treatment for preserving and promoting health, and it is entitled to all the encouragement which it receives. It pays to know how to live.

A FABLE

A half starved, unprotected English Jackass was grazing on short grass and thistles by the roadside, when he looked up and saw a fat American horse grazing on clover. Protected by a high fence, and said to him:

"My American friend, please carry out the 'Iowa idea' and take down your fence and let me come in and help you eat down your surplus."

"This surplus of clover don't bother me as much as a deficit would," said the American horse. "I guess I will keep the fence up."

"But let us have Free-Trade and reciprocity," said the British ass, "you are free to come over and browse on this road. Let me try your clover. There wouldn't be much reciprocity in trading clover for thistles," said the horse. "I will keep the meadow and you can have the hillside, unless you pay me something to come in."

"But a few more feeders would stimulate business and—"

"Yes, when the feed gets short," interrupted the horse, as he shyly winked one eye.

"But all the world feeds on this public highway," whined the poor jackass, "and don't you see I'm starving for some of your clover?"

"Starve away," said the American horse, "the fence works well and my feed grows better every year. I can stand the surplus." And he went on cramming himself with clover, while the poor Free-Trade ass starved to death on thistles.—Ell Perkins in American Economist.

FORLORN SURROUNDINGS

There's nothing more forlorn than a flood swept district, and thousands of families just now are made destitute on this account. As the water recedes, the houses that have been submerged, are left in an untenable condition, with furnishings ruined. The occupants are practically homeless, and the outlook is very discouraging. This kind of a loss can not be protected by insurance, and it is too widespread to be relieved by philanthropy. Crops have been destroyed and many families are financially ruined. The history of the heroic effort that will follow will never be written.

THE COAL DEAL

Retail coal dealers are at the mercy of the operators. The combine has ordered an advance the first of every month, and refuses to accept orders at a given price. If a dealer wants 500 tons for June delivery, he cannot secure it at prices prevailing in June. His order will be shipped at the pleasure of the combine, and at prices ruling the date of shipment. This may seem like business by the men in control, but it would not be tolerated outside of a combination. The investigating committee evidently overlooked some important work.

THE CAUSE

The first four months of the current year, show a falling off of over one million head of cattle and hogs from the leading stock markets of the country, by figures recently compiled by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics. No explanation is offered for the shrinkage, but it is safe to say, that the high prices which prevailed for meat a year ago have had something to do with it. People have discovered that they can live as well on half the meat, and the demand has fallen off in proportion.

Governor Cummings of Iowa, believes that charity begins at home, and in consequence he has not asked for outside aid but his fellow statesmen have nobly answered the appeal for aid from their own purses.

The usual number of farmers and unwise ones, were bitten by the games of men who live by their wits yesterday. Nothing sellous though was reported.

Des Moines is answering the call of the flood sufferers nobly by doing all in its power to alleviate the suffering of the homeless and the sick.

Now it is hoped that Kansas City sewers will be flushed in time to prevent the spread of any disease.

Rusia seems to have more iron in the fire than any other power at present.

PRESS COMMENT

Menasha Breeze: According to the agitator the free and independent man is he you "thinks with me," and the poor, down-trodden slave is he who dares to do his own thinking.

Oshkosh Northwestern: It has already reached a point where the man who talks of defeating President Roosevelt for renomination is regarded with suspicion as to his mental equilibrium.

Marquette Star: New Orleans has legally executed a negro in four days from the time of his arrest. That's almost as quick as mob law, and a great deal better example to set before the rising generation.

Waikesh Press: Constructive legislation is never accomplished merely to prove that a certain reformer has the right of way. The business interests of the state have little in common with the spirit of agitation and spite that appears now to be in control.

Merrill Advocate: What is needed in the republican party in Wisconsin is harmony. For the sake of harmony the Advocate has supported Gov. La Follette in two campaigns, though not believing in any of his so-called "reform" measures. Every good republican ought to be willing to support whomever republican is nominated for governor.

Ashland Press: The Madison Y. M. C. A. is credited with dropping Senator Whitehead from his advisory board because he voted against the anti-cigarette bill. If the facts are as stated the Madison Y. M. C. A. did a pretty small act. Senator Whitehead is one of the cleanest men in the state.

Green Bay Advocate: Wage earners of Chicago have over $100,000,000 hoarded up for a rainy day. And still the laboring men are howling about hard times and oppression and are striking upon every flimsy pretext obtainable. Some people never know when they are well off.

Racine Journal: With a game law costing $72,000 per year to enforce, the legislature was all wrong in giving official assent to any mill owner to throw sawdust in the streams, which it did.

The Berlin machine workers at Be- loit have discovered that it is easier to get out of business than to get in.

MERE OPINION.

It doesn't take much praise to spoil the man who can't stand criticism.

One idle rich man is more of a menace to society than sixty howling anarchists.

Leave your worries at home when you travel. You can get a fresh supply anywhere.

A man whose tongue gets him into trouble usually depends upon his feet to get him out.

It isn't always safe to conclude that a man is a genius simply because he neglects his finger nails.

If we cared more for what men are than for what they have most of us would be looking around for new friends.

There are two kinds of men who fail. Those who never make enemies and those who make enemies they are afraid of.

Some men, spend so much time studying other men's maxims, that they never get a chance to do anything worth while.

WOODMEN'S DAY WELL OBSERVED

CROWD REACHED THE NEIGHBORHOOD OF TWENTYTHOUSAND.

MANY PRIZES WERE AWARDED

Speaking in Court House Park and Prize Drilling on Jackson Street.

In the peace and quiet of the day after the citizens of Janesville, the Modern Woodman committee, and all others concerned are in a very good position to pat themselves upon the back. Undoubtedly the picnic was a success. The multitude which had been slightly more multitudinous. Careful calculations place the figure now at about 20,000. But those 20,000 enjoyed themselves immensely and the people of this city were not sorry they came.

Not many years ago a Modern Woodman picnic sometimes meant many free-for-all fights, a general spirit of rowdiness, and a large quantity of drunkenness. Not so yesterday. But neither was the other extreme of stagnation and lack of amusement reached.

The afternoon program went off like clockwork. The fire run won a mass of favorable comment, not simply from the unthinking general public, but men who are connoisseurs in such things.

"Inside this state I have not seen a city save Milwaukee which has a fire department which could make a better showing than that," said Col. Hollister of Madison.

Chief of Police Baker of Madison agreed heartily, and Chief Bernard of the Capitol City fire department admitted the excellence of the equipment and the beauty of the run.

With Chief Klein, with Con Murphy as driver, in the lead the run was made by the company from the two stations out on West Milwaukee street toward the Five Points. Every horse was on parade and knew it, and the sight was magnificent.

In the courthouse park the exercises were opened with music by the prize-winning band, the Honney band of Freeport. After an invocation by Father Goebel, Pres. F. P. Starr of the picnic association addressed the audience which had assembled. He was followed by Mayor A. O. Wilson, M. G. Jeffris, Director Talbot of the Modern Woodmen, and State Lecturer Whalen. Rev. Churn closed the exercises with prayer. The addresses were of a uniformly stirring and eloquent order.

Before the city hall the prize drills took place. Beloit 1907 was well in the lead of all of the four teams entered; until one man lost his head momentarily, confounding the ranks until he again had found his place. The team was thrown to the foot by the errors. The award was as follows, and was made by Henry G. Baker of Madison, C. F. Jorgenson of Evansville, and J. W. Van Beynum of this city:

First, Rock Island .95 2-3 points $75.
Second, Rockford .94 1-6 points $50.
Third, Beloit .92 1-2 points $25.
Fourth, Beloit, 1907 .91 1-2 points.

In the tug of war between Wisconsin and Illinois Wisconsin came off victor.

The prize for the most artistic float was awarded to Crystal Camp, No. 132, R. N. A.

The Golden Eagle store was given the award for the best window front. The judges were Messrs. Felt and Bahecock of Madison and Ryan of Rockford.

The Henney Wagon Co. band of Freeport were given first prize by Judges John Thorngood, D. D. Bennett, and W. T. Thiele.

WERE MARRIED IN THE CITY HALL

Leaf River Couple Who Attended the Picnic, Were Married by Judge Fifield.

For the first time since it was built a marriage ceremony was performed in the city hall yesterday. The contracting parties were John L. Funk and Lillie Fogle of Leaf River who had come to the city to see the picnic and decided to kill two birds with one stone by becoming married. Judge Fifield married them in the presence of friends and relatives who had accompanied them.

REPORTORIAL, GLEANINGS

Attention, K. of P.: Every member of Oriental, No. 22, K. of P., is requested to be present this evening. Important business. W. O. Newhouse, C. C.

Divorce Was Granted: Judge Dunwiddie today ordered a judgment of divorce to Lizzie Hiller from her husband.

Fire Police at Head: Through some error the order of march given for yesterday's parade was incomplete in that it failed to include the Fire Police, who headed the parade.

Personal Property Next Week: The assessors hope to be able to begin to compile the lists of personal property by the middle of the coming week. The blanks which are sent out from Madison have been delayed.

Rain Hurt Picnic: Although the weather in this city could not have been finer there were many cities in Illinois where it was raining steadily at the time the excursion trains started that it greatly cut down the attendance.

Wanted to Marry: Several couples came to the city yesterday in the hope of being married, but upon applying at the courthouse learned that when the bride is a resident of this state the license must be procured in the same county in which she resides. As they lived in other counties they were disappointed. Licenses were granted yesterday to Louis G. Klesling and Martha Sophia Henrietta Schultz, both of Beloit; John W. Daly and Lola Bidwell, both of Janesville.

Peculiar Dial: Charles H. Berg, a man employed by the Milwaukee Sentinel, yesterday, amused a large number of spectators, and mystified not a few of them by exhibiting a clock dial in the window of the People's Drug company. The dial was of glass, transparent, and the hands hung freely about with no apparent controlling mechanism. After revolving they always came to a rest at the correct hour. Berg was dressed as a clown and attracted people to the exhibit by his antics.

POLICE GUARDED AGAINST CROOKS

THREE SUSPECTS LOCKED UP ALL DAY THURSDAY.

WAS GENERAL GOOD ORDER

No Fights Occurred, and But Few Bad Drunks Were To Be Seen.

Although a large gang of well-known criminals camped in town Wednesday night and others came in yesterday the day was uncommonly free from lawlessness or theft. Chief Hogan and his assistants preserved excellent order, handling the crowds with a great deal of skill. The railways also had their forces of special police and a good number of plain clothes men. Several of the prominent officials of the roads were present in person to superintend handling the trains.

As the crowds were leaving the Beloit depots a gang of pickpockets lifted about $150 from excursionists.

Several characters whose faces were familiar to the police were held in the lockup yesterday for safe keeping.

Only a few drunks were confined, but those who were were subjected to the gazes of the crowds which thronged through the city hall.

A Richland Center boy who tried to catch a late freight back to his home fell and broke his leg, and is now at the Palmer Memorial hospital. No accidents occurred at the depots during the hours that the specials were running.

Returning from the ball game an overworked street car became uncontrollable on the hill by Buob's brewery and began to slip back down the hill. Three other cars were following closely and the passengers were panic stricken, leaping from the windows and platforms. Few understood what the trouble was, and supposed that the car had been reversed and was running full speed backward, instead of being borne down hill by its own weight. The scare was soon over but not before a couple of women had been very slightly injured by jumping from the car. Motorman Chaplin's hand was badly cut on a window which was broken.

A small boy who had come to the city for the picnic was overcome by the fatigue of the day and was prostrated, but soon recovered.

The invocation of President Daland was followed by a number from the college quartet. Messrs. Seeger, John Horn, Platt and Whitford, Van M. After their return from the cemetery the band gave a concert from the band stand in the park.

THE GERMAN CAPITAL.

BEAUTIFUL AND WELL KEPT,
THE CITY IS A DELIGHT.

Love of Music a Characteristic of the Berliners—Unter den Linden One of the Most Popular of Thoroughfares.

(Special Correspondence.)
The religion of Berlin is music. In no other city does the divine art hold its votaries so completely. The predominating talk in the home, the street, the park, everywhere people congregate, is music. Wagner, Mozart, Handel, Mendelssohn, all the Statue Before Old Palace.

great masters, are the idols of the populace. Then when it comes to symphony effects they never tire of discussing the military bands of the empire. Every regiment has a band of 60 men and there are some 500 in the army, all of which play in the capital before the members are mustered out of service. All bands are good, many excel, and some are wonderfully proficient. So the Berlin car is attuned to the march, quickstep, waltz, dirge and the national anthems, and if anything is distressing it is to find discord where harmony should be the only sound given out.
The opera they fairly rave over. To instance how deep is the attachment one need only state that, if the two sultry months are excepted, it is put on at the Royal Opera House every night in the year, Sundays included.

Seven o'clock is the hour fixed for beginning the opera in Berlin, and when it is unusually long 6:30 o'clock.
Evening attire is tabooed, the only persons fashionably attired being visitors. So the spectacular and brilliant scenes in the boxes, on the floor and in the galleries of London, New York and Paris are wanting in Berlin. Say what they may, it is a distinct loss, for the privilege of viewing an elegantly attired assemblage is relished by cultured persons. If Berlin is deficient here it excels otherwise. The opera is magnificently staged, the choruses are full and sympathetic, the solos superbly rendered, and the orchestra of 80 evolves melody which captivates the senses.

The Royal Opera House is not so large as the Metropolitan in New York, but is much grander. The imperial box is in the first gallery in the rear facing the stage. It is three times the size of the other boxes.
Surmounting it is the royal coat of arms wrought in gold and decorated in yellow. The general treatment of the ceiling, walls and boxes is red.
The Kaiser reflects the musical tastes of his subjects in being inordinately fond of the opera. Every chance he has to attend he is certain to avail himself of it. As he is the busiest man in the empire these opportunities are none too frequent.

The Kaiser is immensely popular.
Wherever he goes he is affectionately greeted. Neither the King of England nor the President of the United States receives more sincere homage from the masses than the ruler who abruptly cut short the public service of Bismarck. Men criticize his acts, but are intensely devoted to his person. He tries to meet this sentiment half way and in so doing has come to be regarded as the most democratic ruler of the house of Hohenzollern.

Berlin has an Anglo-American Club whose purpose is to foster friendly that every year he comes over to meet his friends and to learn what Yankee genius has evolved since his last visit. He is self-made, too. He began without a dollar and, though only in middle life, is worth several millions.

In my second visit to Berlin the change most noticeable was in the transformation of Unter den Linden.
Its most celebrated thoroughfare. I was disappointed with it in its un-tidiness and its unsightly accessories on first view. Papers were hung about everywhere; there were ugly-looking booths and advertising pillars to disfigure the roadway—for there are two—and in the center was the broad promenade, with dirty benches and slovenly occupants. A filthy roadway for equestrians completed a picture repugnant to those who prize cleanliness and good taste. And this in the capital of the cleanest country on the globe and in its most attractive quarter.

Strangers marveled why Berlin splendid every other way, was so wo-fully lacking in caring for its historical avenue and wondered why the burghers were so zealous about keeping every other section looking presentable and neglecting that which had first claim upon their pride. These criticisms finally reached the inner recesses of royalty at Potsdam and the Kaiser bestirred himself, with the result that the eyesores which defaced the capital so long have been removed. Now the central promenade is flanked on either side by lawns and flower beds and painted benches and is a restful and pleasing retreat, with the four rows of lindens furnishing protection from the sun. These lindens are old and stunted and are not to be compared with the kind at Hamburg, where the light yellow flowers and heart-shaped leaves of rich green make a handsome tree. Unter den Linden is now kept clean by a corps of men and is no longer a receptacle for debris. The dirty road reserved for equestrians has been made a smooth sand course for those fond of the exercise. At last Unter den Linden corresponds with Berlin in general.

The Brandenburg gate separates the principal park from the lower end of Unter den Linden. There are three roadways beneath the arch, but the central one is reserved exclusively for the Emperor. The figure of Victory perched on its top originally faced the park. When Napoleon took the city he had it taken down and carried to Paris. When he surrendered in 1815 the Prussians regained possession and returned it to Berlin.

The Brandenburg Gate.

When it was placed on the gate it was made to face the Unter den Linden instead of the park.

OLD-TIME BILLIARD TABLE.

Was Owned by Louis XIV and the Emperor Napoleon I.

There is a billiard table in London at the present moment that can boast of a lifetime of two centuries and a long acquaintance with men who have made history. It belonged originally to Louis XIV, passed into the possession of Napoleon I, and now, in its old age, has come into the hands of Messrs. Orme & Sons, and is on exhibition in Soho square. This celebrated table is smaller than an English table.
The body of the table is a block of oak, weighing 10,000 pounds, covered with a cloth of electric blue. The frame of the table is of rosewood, and the six pockets—perhaps the most striking feature of the table—are reproductions in bronze of queer, hideous old gargoyle. When the ball falls into the pocket the lower jaw of the gargoyle drops, and the ball is found in its mouth. It is a clever piece of ancient mechanism.

The Newspaper the Thing.
Notwithstanding the present rage for pasting greenbacks on bill boards, newspaper advertising unquestionably continues to be more favored by those who have tried it and won. This is true particularly with managers of first-class theater attractions. William A. Brady, whose wife, Grace George, is in all probability the best advised star in America, and whose "Way Down East" has made more money than any other American play, spends about $100,000 with the newspapers. His last move was the formation of a syndicate which supplies pictures and articles (in which the name of Grace George is deftly hidden) to 156 different journals last week.

Lumber in Washington State.
The state of Washington has the most gigantic lumber resources in the world. One acre of Washington timber will furnish in its lumber as many carloads of freight as 120 years of wheat product from a Dakota farm.

Consumption of Potatoes.
For every 10,000 inhabitants of Germany 160 acres of potatoes are planted, as against 112 acres in Austria; 98 acres in France, 35 acres in the United States and 31 acres in Great Britain and Ireland.

DOCTORS SAY CHASE WAS SANE

Witnesses Tell of Condition of Young Millionaire Four Years Ago.

Lafayette, Ind., June 5.—In court at Fowler, the testimony taken was in behalf of Moses Fowler. The depositions of Drs. Mitchell and Jenkins of Cincinnati, read at length, stated that the boy was sane and rational at the time he took steps to have his name changed and his domicile established in Ohio. The testimony of Dr. John C. Webster and Dr. John Smith, both of Lafayette, as to the mental condition of young Chase in November, 1899, when he was declared of sound mind by the local court, was that he was sane then. Each of the physicians examined him two or three times.

Archbishop Grows Weaker.
Fond du Lac, Wis., June 5.—Reports indicate that the condition of Archbishop Katzer is not encouraging. It is said that he is gradually losing weight and physicians cannot agree as to the real cause of his illness.

New State Bank.
Springfield, Ill., June 5.—Auditor McCallough has issued a permit for the organization of the Farmers' State Bank of Liberty at New Liberty to D.
W. Callahan, H. G. Henry and H. E.
Schmidtkeamp. The capital is $25,000.

Opposes Oil Trust.
Bucharest, June 5.—The Roumanian government intends to set aside 500, 000 francs to build a pipe line from the oil wells to Port Constantza, thus flouting the Standard Oil company.

Will Pension Old Employees.
New York, June 5.—The Postal Telegraph Cable company announces that it will pension employees of fifteen or more years' standing who become incapacitated in the work.

Yellow Fever.
Washington, June 5.—Acting Surgeon Hamilton of the marine hospital service, who is on duty in Mexico, reports that yellow fever has made its appearance at Progresso.

Pope Leo is gradually falling in strength, and his physicians fear for his life.

NEW METHODS IN WAR
On Dyspepsia.

Capt. Rexall and Sergt. Chub Confer Capt. Rexall: "There are still many captives of our enemy (Dyspepsia) in this city; they must be found and rescued. Issue a proclamation at once! Let it be known by every one that if they have Dyspepsia or indigestion they should report at once to the Smith Drug Co. store and be cured."

Sergt. Chub: "How will the people know they have Dyspepsia?" Capt. Rexall: "If anyone has a feeling of fullness, or pain in stomach; is nervous and irritable, has bitter liquid come up in mouth; belches gas and wind; is depressed and cannot sleep; has headache; pain in limbs and back, also constipation and heartburn. All these feelings indicate some form of Dyspepsia. They can be cured by using

A NEW SKIN IN 45 DAYS

ECZEMA, SALT RHEUM, ITCHING PILES, TETTER, BARBERS' ITCH.

Any skin disease completely eradicated. A sufferer literally covered is cleared off and permanently cured in 45 days' time—a new skin practically grown—no pain—smarting or itching during the cure.

WE VOUCH
FOR THIS

In the case of Mr. Charles Jacobs shown here, photographed in his diseased condition, (psoriasis, a species of eczema), he was almost entirely covered. The trouble started in three small spots and did not spread beyond this for eight years. Then it suddenly raged all over.

It raged more or less in this way for ten years, and was afterward entirely cleared away in about 6 weeks time by D. D. D. and no taint of the disease has appeared since—over two years ago.

We know this to be exactly as stated.
PEOPLE'S DRUG COMPANY
GEO. E. KING & CO.

This result can be accomplished with any skin affection. Barrels of blood medicine can do nothing for a skin disease. Nine out of ten manifestations in the skin are local, parasitic in nature and absolutely curable by this new prescription. D. D. D. is a clean liquid prescription sopped or atomized over the affected spots twice daily.

This preparation has our unqualified endorsement. We are recommending it with most excellent results. The cures already effected are having wide-spread influence in this section. If you have a skin affection—come to the store. It will be the means of making you a happier human being.

TO BRING BUSINESS

"OLD GORGON GRAHAM'S" AD-VICE TO HIS SON.

Some Few Pointers as to the Duty of a Drummer—Orders, More Orders, Big Orders the Three Things Always to Be Kept in Mind.

Dear Pierpont: When I saw you start off yesterday I was just a little uneasy; for you looked so blamed important and cheery that I am inclined to think you will tell the first customer who says he doesn't like our sausage that he knows what he can do about it. Repartee makes reading lively, but business dull. And what the house particularly needs is more orders.

Sausage is the one subject of all others that a fellow in the packing business ought to treat solemnly.
Half the people in the world take a joke seriously from the start, and the other half if you repeat it often enough. Only last week the head of our sausage department started to put out a tin-tag brand of frankfurts, but I made him take it off the market quicker than lightning, because I knew that the first fellow who saw the tin-tag would ask if that was the license. And, though people would grin a little at first, they'd begin to look serious after a while; and whenever the butcher tried to sell them our brand they'd imagine they heard the bark, and ask for "that real country sausage" at twice as much a pound.

A real salesman is one-part talk and nine-parts judgment; and he uses the nine-parts of judgment to tell when to use the one-part of talk.
Goods ain't sold under Marquess of Queensberry rules any more, and you'll find that knowing how many rounds the Old 'Un can last against the Buller Maker won't really help you to load up the junior partner with our Corn-fed brand hams.

A good many salesmen have an idea that buyers are only interested in baseball, funny stories, and Tom Lipton, and that business is a side line with them, but as a matter of fact mighty few men work up to the position of buyer through giving up their office hours to listening to anecdotes.
I never saw one that liked a drummer's jokes more than an eighth of a cent a pound on a tierce of lard. What the house really needs you out for is orders.

Of course, you want to be nice and mellow with the trade, but always remember that mellowness carried too far becomes rottenness. You can buy some fellows with a cheap cigar and some with a cheap compliment, but there's no objection to giving a man what he likes, though I never knew smoking to do anything good except a ham, or flattery to help any one except to make a fool of himself.

Real buyers ain't interested in much besides your goods and your prices.
Never run down your competitor's brand to them, and never let them run down yours. Don't get on your knees for business, but don't hold your nose so high in the air that an order can travel under it without your seeing it. You'll meet a good many people on the road that you won't like, but the house needs their business.

For your own satisfaction I will say right here that you may know you are in a fair way of becoming a good drummer by three things:

First—When you send us Orders.
Second—More Orders.
Third—Big Orders.

If you do this you won't have a great deal of time to write long letters, and we won't have a great deal of time to read them, for we will be very, very busy here making and shipping the goods. We aren't specially interested in orders that the other fellow gets, or in knowing how it happened after it has happened. If you like life on the road you simply won't let it happen. So just send us your address every day and your orders.
They will tell us all that we want to know about "the situation."—From "Letters from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son," by George Horace Lor-mer. By permission of Small, Maynard & Co., Publishers, Boston, Mass.

Pay of Turkish Ministers.
A Turkish Ministerial portfolio is a sort of gold-mine to the holder. It is not the Vizier, however, who holds the richest claim, though his salary is $65,000 a year, which is also that of the War Minister. The "plum" of Turkish officials is the Admiralty, which is worth $84,000 a year, and the present holder is stated to have amassed a fortune of $12,000,000.
The Minister of Foreign Affairs has $44,000, and finance comes next with a thousand lower, financial ability being apparently esteemed in inverse ratio to the need for it. The lowest salary is that of the Minister of Mines, though it is rather higher than that of the Premier of Great Britain. The sum is $27,800.

Dyer's Contemporaries Gone.
Col. D. P. Dyer of St. Louis, who is upholding the cause of justice as United States district attorney, is at the Ebblitt. To look at his unwrinkled face and listen to his forceful talk, it is hard for one to realize that he was a member of congress thirty-two years ago.

Of that congress—the thirty-first—there are not many survivors, although several senators, Frye, Hale, Hoar and one or two more, were in the house at the time Col. Dyer was a member. But in the house which expired recently there was no member who saw service as his contemporary.—Washington Post.

Very Likely.
Wife (looking up from paper)—
That was "Hobson's choice," anyway?
Husband—Mrs. Hobson, I suppose.

POULTRY

DUCK CULTURE.

From Farmers' Review: The most important thing is to have good healthy parent stock that is not in-bred. What we mean by inbred is using male birds from your own eggs for breeders several years without getting new blood from some other source. Our practice is to get some other breeder to exchange eggs with us from which we hatch and raise our own drakes for breeding for next season. In raising stock for breeding we start from the time the parent stock is hatched. These are selected from the April and May hatches and are not forced same as ordinary stock for market. They do not come to maturity in four weeks. As soon as they get their feathers (except the wings) we sort them, picking out all the most promising ducks for breeders. The drakes are put back in pens and fattened for market. For breeders we select the medium-size ducks, with drakes just a little under-sized. These we think are more active and eggs are more fertile. As soon as we have our breeders sorted we turn them out to pasture in flocks, say 200 on about two acres with plenty of shade and a creek running through the lot. They are fed sparingly on a light feed composed of three-quarters bran with the rest equal parts corn meal, low grade flour, ground oats, 5 per cent beef scrap; also one-third of entire mixture, cut clover rowen of second crop clover cut very fine, with all long stems screened out, or green corn fodder cut every day very fine. Feed all they will eat up clean quickly.
Keep them purposely a little hungry.
They are kept here until Nov. 1 to 15, according to weather. Then they are again sorted and put in pens 12x 100 with 10x10 pen inside house, 20 ducks and 5 drakes to a pen. Each pen has a feed trough 1 foot wide 6 inches deep, 12 feet long, with another for water 6 feet long outside.
Inside they have a feed trough same as others with a 15 quart pail for water not over 14 inches high. This pen is kept bedded with fine planer shavings preferred. It has a box for oyster shells and gravel size of wheat or corn. Here the feed is all changed to equal parts: corn meal, bran, low-grade flour, ground oats and stale bread or crackers. It can be had, 10 per cent beef scrap and one-third entire mixture, fine cut clover. Steam the whole mixed thoroughly with warm water, not sloppy, but in a condition so it crumbles. Feed inside in stormy weather and outside if the snow is off the ground. They should start laying by last of December or first of January. The eggs are gathered first thing in the morning, when one can see to get them; also again at 9 and 11 o'clock. This is to keep them from getting chilled.
Later when it is warm 9 or 10 o'clock will do. As the pens are kept bedded the eggs which are laid on the floor are most all clean. Those that are soiled are washed lightly. We set our eggs twice or three times a week never using eggs over one week old.
They are run in the incubator four weeks at 103, being turned on wire trays half over every twelve hours.
We never open machine from time they start to hatch until all are out.
Machine is provided with a nursery under trays below into which they fall as fast as hatched and are out of the way of others that are coming out.

When they are all dried off we take a bushel basket and line with paper, then put in soft cloth, first warming it; into this we place the little downy fellows, cover them up and hurry them off to the brooder house.

AN UP-TO-DATE GAME.

With All the Accessories That Mark Modern Life.

Tommy, Robert and Mildred had exhausted the more riotous of their pastimes. All three stood dawdling, awaiting a suggestion for something new and exciting. Several things were proposed by the boys, to each of which Mildred objected on the ground that there was no place for a lady in them.

She finally solved the problem herself by saying:

"Let's play that I'm an American helpless and you, Robert, will be a duke coming to marry me for my money."

The role suited Robert in every way, but Tommy came out with the objection:

"Where do I come in?"

"Why, that's all right, Tommy," cried the little girl. "You can be the sheriff after the trunks."
